The moustache men are growing strong..

HAIR WE GROW: Swindon players get in the mood for their fund-raiser by wearing fake taches

By PAUL JIGGINS

Lee Peacock dreams of looking more like Captain Peacock.

It is not that the Swindon striker wants to become the club skipper.

He just wishes he could grow a moustache like the character in classic Seventies sitcom Are You Being Served?

Peacock - the footballer - is one of eight Town players trying to grow a tache this month in aid of charity.

But he admitted: "I am worried. I'm 31 this year and I still can't grow a proper beard.

"I think I'm going to end up sticking fake hair on my face to fill in the missing bits by the end of the month."

Peacock is taking part in the TacheBack fund-raiser with team-mates Jamie Vincent, Craig Easton, Phil Smith, Alex Rigley, Hasney Aljofree, Jerel Ifil and Sofiene Zaaboub.

They joined thousands of men across the country by agreeing to bin their razors for the whole of September in aid of the Everyman Male Cancer Campaign.

Peacock added: "I saw the TacheBack fund-raiser being advertised and suggested it to the lads.

cause and there will definitely be a few 1970s-style photo opportunities.

"But the whole thing is about raising awareness - the fact you can have a bit of fun along the way just makes it better.

"I favour the handlebar look myself and, although I've dabbled with facial hair before, this will give me the opportunity to try out a few designs."

His midfield pal Easton insists there is only one kind of moustache for him.

He said: "I think Magnum, the American TV detective played by Tom Selleck, is the style I'll be going for. But we'll just have to see how it goes. Some of the boys have got a bigger head start than others.

"There were a lot of moustaches around in the game during the 1970s and 1980s, and hopefully this will help bring it back into modern football."

All the money raised during the month will go to fund The Everyman Centre - Europe's first and only centre dedicated to male cancer research, which is part of The Institute of Cancer Research.

SHOCK SWOOP: Groundsman Joe with one of the birds

Barry Hearn has no trouble selling tickets for his snooker, darts and boxing events, but his football club is a different matter.

That is why the Leyton Orient chairman has launched a new initiative to get more fans through the turnstiles at the Matchroom Stadium.

Orient season ticket holders will be able to bring along for free an under-18 pal to the League 1 match with Hartlepool on September 22.

Hearn said: "There's no point hiding away from the fact that we need to attract more people to the Matchroom Stadium on a regular basis.

"We need to start with the youngsters and build them into lifelong Orient supporters."

A crowd of 4,995 saw Orient's 1-0 home win over Bournemouth, which kept them at the top of the table.

Hearn added: "That figure needs to rise to 6,000 if we are to have any hope of taking that next step and bring Championship football to this club."

Palace 1 Palace 0

Crystal Palace were guaranteed to get a result at Selhurst Park - when the Championship club took on its American feeder club in a friendly.

Matt Lawrence scored the only goal of the game to give the English Eagles a hard-fought victory over their American buddies.

Chairman Simon Jordan launched Palace USA to help the club develop the best young American players with a view to them playing over here.

Selhurst boss Peter Taylor was impressed with the visitors, especially their Canada Under-20 keeper Brian Rowland.

Taylor said: "Could some of those players come to England and play? You never know.

"I can't keep a regular check on them in terms of going to watch them play - but it's easy for me to keep track by talking to the staff over there.

"If they think someone could do a job for us then I will look into it."

Allison named head of referees

Dave Allison has come a long way since refereeing a Lancaster and Morecambe Sunday League encounter between the Lancaster Co-Op and the North West Electricity Board.

Allison, 58, is now the new national group manager for the Professional Game Match Officials - the body in charge of referees in England.

That means he has the job of managing, training and appointing officials for all matches in the Coca-Cola Football League, Carling Cup and Johnstone's Paint Trophy.

Dave, who was a Football League linesman and referee for 20 years, replaces Jim Ashworth, who has retired.

He recalled: "I remember my first game, it was between the Lancaster Co-Op and the North West Electricity Board in the now defunct Lancaster and Morecambe Sunday League in February 1967.

"So I suppose I have done quite well. I moved into the North Lancs League and eventually up into the League proper."

Dave became a Football League linesman in 1977, before being promoted to the referees' list in 1980.

The former teacher, who refereed the 1996 Play-Offs Final between Crystal Palace and Leicester at Wembley, took charge of 463 matches.

He will now be passing on his experience to the 57 referees and 200 assistants on the National List.

Who you gonna call...Netbuster!

HOT SHOT: Striker Anthony Thomas (right) in pre-season action for the Bees against Arsenal

Readers of a certain vintage may remember a comic book hero called Hot Shot Hamish, a Scottish striker so powerful he burst the net every time he scored for his club Princes Park.

League 2 Barnet have their own real-life version - Thunderbolt Thomas!

Rookie striker Anthony Thomas turned netbuster when he scored his first league goal in the televised clash at Dagenham & Redbridge.

Thunderbolt said: "The lads have all been saying to me that I must have been working out. But I think it was a lot more to do with the weakness of the net than the power in my foot."

The bizarre incident happened in first-half injury time of the clash at the London Borough of Barking and Dagenham Stadium - with visitors Barnet trailing 1-0.

Thomas played a short free kick to team-mate Jason Puncheon before drilling the return into the bottom corner from 25 yards.

As Thomas wheeled away in celebration there was confusion in the ground as the ball ripped through the net and rebounded off the advertising hoardings behind the goal.

Dagers boss John Still genuinely thought the shot went wide of the target. But eagle-eyed referee Andy Woolmer immediately awarded the goal.

Barnet signed former shelf-stacker Thomas, 25, from Hemel Hempstead Town in April.

He said: "I was in no doubt I had scored.

"I know some of the Dagenham players thought it went wide, but I would have been very disappointed had it not been given.

"Not many players can say they burst the net with their first league goal."

Mystic Flitcroft is a top ball gazer..

Rochdale assistant boss Dave Flitcroft could prove a worthy rival to Mystic Meg if he ever decided to give up the game.

Dale are paired with Bury in the draw for the Second Round of the Johnstone's Paint Trophy.

Spotland boss Keith Hill revealed: "I was talking to Dave about the draw last week and after putting away his crystal ball he told me we would get Bury.

"I suppose we had to get them with all the history between us - and the fact that we've been taking on some of their former players and staff."

League newcomers Dagenham & Redbridge were handed a short trip to East End neighbours Leyton Orient.

Dagers chairman Dave Andrews said: "It's a dream draw - at least it would be if we were at home.

"But it's one our fans will be looking forward to."

All uphill for Alan!

If Colchester lose at home to Charlton tomorrow they can blame...er, Barnet.

The Addicks have prepared for their trip to Layer Road - by switching their training sessions to the Bees' Underhill stadium.

Valley boss Alan Pardew, a former Barnet player, said: "I wanted to find an environment similar to Layer Road and immediately thought of Underhill.

"I'd like to thank Barnet chairman Tony Kleanthous for letting us use the facilities."

TRAGIC BELLE

Southend's cheerleaders The Blue Belles have donated their wages to the children of one of the troupe who has been killed in a car crash.

Lucy Redmile, 26, died in an accident in north London last month. Her parents were also killed. The tragedy has left Lucy's three young children without a mother.

So her dancemates in The Blue Belles decided to give them the fees from their matchday performance against Gillingham.

The girls also wore pink ribbons as a tribute to their pal.

Cheers, Hollo

Plymouth boss Ian Holloway is still counting the cost of last season's away win at Sunderland.

Eleven months ago he offered to buy every travelling fan a drink after the Pilgrims' 3-2 victory at the Stadium of Light.

He told FourFourTwo: "There were 500 Argyll fans there and I swear I've bought about 1,500 drinks.

"I've spent a fair few quid. I've even had letters from people saying they couldn't meet me down the bar, so could I send them £2.50 instead."

It's all child's play for super-smart Robbie

Dynamic duo on the telly

By PAUL JIGGINS

Footballers are all about designer clothes and really looking the part.

But for Robbie Elliott, snapping up all the latest fashion brands is child's play.

The Hartlepool defender runs a successful kiddies' clothes shop with his wife Justine.

The couple opened Just Kidding in Gosforth, Newcastle, four years ago.

The shop stocks the latest designer labels for trendy tots - and their image-conscious parents.

Elliott, who joined Hartlepool from Leeds in the summer, said: "The shop itself has been there for about 30 years. In fact, Justine used to shop there when she was a little girl.

"It was the perfect venture for us because we have three kids, and Justine has always loved buying designer clothes for them.

"So I thought I would be

ELLIOTT: Smart signing for Hartlepool able to save myself a few bob by getting her to buy stock for the shop instead.

"Unfortunately, my plan hasn't quite worked out as she now buys more clothes than ever for the kids. They wear better gear than me!

"But the good thing is, she buys most of them at our shop, which is great for business." The shop stocks brands like Ralph Lauren, Moschino and Stone Island - to fit sizes from newborn to 16 years.

GEORDIE: Robbie in his Newcastle days

Elliott, who starred at Newcastle and Bolton, added: "I pop in most days after training.

"But while Justine works out front serving the customers, I'm usually stuck in the back shifting boxes."

Elliott could soon be about to open a second branch - at Hartlepool's training ground.

He added: "When I was at Newcastle I had some team-mates who were very good customers indeed.

"I haven't managed to sign up any of the Hartlepool lads yet, but I may take in a few items to tempt them."

Armchair fans will get their first chance to see Robbie Fowler and Jimmy Floyd Hasselbaink on television in Cardiff colours tomorrow.

The Bluebirds' big-name signings are poised to start the live clash at Plymouth.

The Coca-Cola Championship clash kicks off at 5.20pm (Sky Sports 1).

Watford could have a Duke and a King in attack when they host Southampton in Sunday's live match.

The Hornets' new £3.25million signing Nathan Ellington - nicknamed Duke - could make his first start for the club alongside...Marlon King.

The action at Vicarage Road kicks off at 1.30pm (Sky Sports 1).

A round-up of all tomorrow's League action is on ITV1's The Championship at 10.50am on Sunday.

3-shirt trick for Andrew

Andrew Procter scored twice against Grimsby - and ended up with a unique hat-trick!

The Accrington Stanley striker bagged his brace after wearing three different shirts.

He was forced to change his top twice after suffering a busted nose.

League rules state a player must change his shirt if it gets blood on it.

A Stanley spokesman said: "Andy certainly had an eventful afternoon. He looked in the mood for goals.

"The only danger was that we were going to run out of clean shirts for him before the final whistle.

"As soon as he suffered the injury we knew he would need a new shirt. Then after he scored his first he opened up the wound again.

"Players usually only have one spare shirt so it was a real scramble to find a second."
