WHAT A LINE-UP: Youngsters from in and around the Bournemouth area help launch the club's new Community project

It's Cherry well done as 1,700 kids join Trust

Bournemouth are helping more local youngsters than ever thanks to their new Community Sports Trust.

They re-launched the Community scheme at the start of this season to ensure they could include more school children in the activities.

As well as football coaching, the Cherries now teach other sports including hockey, cricket and basketball - and around 1,700 children per week are part of the activities.

Community leader Steve Cuss revealed they are close to becoming a charitable organisation.

He said: "We want to help more local people and by gaining charitable status it would give us the funding to do so.

"We would like to include more people with disabilities in our programme and we believe we are close to being able to do that. We would also like access to a greater number of schools.

"When I started here five years ago we had two sessions per week going on at local schools, and one disability course.

"We now have 45 sessions per week throughout the area, employ five full-time staff and coach 1,700 youngsters.

"That really is a great process of expansion but we are not going to stop there.

"By becoming the Bournemouth Community Sports Trust it has allowed us to bring more people in to the scheme. We no longer just coach football throughout the entire year - although obviously it is the main part of our courses."

One of the biggest attractions for local children is the chance to play on the pitch at the League 1 club.

Bournemouth also allow the Community staff to create and stage the bulk of the half-time entertainment at each home game.

Cuss added: "We have things like penalty shoot out competitions, 6-a-Sides, and we also do coaching sessions on the pitch. We want to make half-time as entertaining as possible and it gives the children the chance to feel a real part of the club."

Walsall zero in on £25,000

Walsall's Youth Academy has received a £25,000 boost - thanks to superfan Chris White and Coca-Cola Zero's Find the Next Rooney competition.

Chris, 22, won the prize in a one-off Virgin Radio draw which was a part of Coke Zero's latest Football League promotion.

He also picked up a £1,000 cheque for himself.

Big-hearted Chris, who is an Aston Villa supporter, pledged the cash to The Saddlers - his favourite League club.

He said: "I'm delighted to have made an impact at Walsall by donating my winnings to the club's Youth Development scheme.

"I grew up in the Midlands loving football and Walsall have always been my top Football League club."

The Find the Next Rooney promotion runs from January 14 to March 3. Each week a Football League fan will win £25,000 for their club's Youth Development plus £1,000 for themselves.

See promotional packs of Coke Zero and Coca-Cola for details or visit www.coca-cola.co.uk/football

FLYING SHRIMPS

Southend United are really flying this season - and you can join them!

The League 1 side are pushing for a Play-Offs spot as they chase promotion, and on Tuesday they head to Hartlepool United for a crucial encounter.

Steve Tilson's men will travel by aeroplane in order to avoid a 600-mile round trip by road to the clash.

And Southend are offering 20 supporters the opportunity to join the players on the aircraft.

The flight departs from Southend Airport at 1.30pm and flies to Teesside Airport.

Coaches will transfer everyone to the pre-match hotel before going on to Victoria Park.

Prices are £290 per person and can be booked by calling 01703 304133.

Taylor made for job as Nigel's best man

Watford fanatic Nigel Bristow made the signing of the season - as Graham Taylor became the best man at his wedding.

Nigel tied the knot with fiancée Glennis Tuttle - who is also a massive Hornets' fan - at the end of January after watching their side lose 4-2 at home to QPR.

But the day got better for the couple from Norfolk as former Watford boss Taylor turned up to give them a wedding day that was completely out of the ordinary - and one they will never forget.

Nigel met Taylor at a book signing in June last year, and passed a note asking the former Watford and England manager to be his best man.

Three months later he received an acceptance from the man who bossed the Hertfordshire club between 1977-87 and 1996-2001.

Taylor said: "I said to my wife that the last thing this guy expected was for me to say yes - and so I did!"

"I get hundreds of requests to turn up to events and weddings and things like that, but this one stood out.

"I decided I would do it, but rather than call Nigel up I sent a letter back. I wanted to keep him waiting.

"But when I turned up people didn't understand why I was there. They were genuinely surprised when I told them I was the best man!

"Nigel had kept it all a secret, and most of the family and guests there were Watford supporters so it was great.

"My speech was a bit difficult - because I didn't know the guy! But I got through it. I can't even remember what I said.

"It was a great wedding day though and I think the

ALL THE BEST: Taylor with the happy Hornets' couple couple deserved it."

Nigel said: "Graham was the first person that came to mind when I thought about who would be my best man.

"I never thought he would say yes, but this just shows what a lovely man he is.

"We had many happy times at Watford with him as our manager - and now he has given me another memory I definitely won't forget."

Pele to honour Banks

Brazilian legend Pele will visit Stoke City this summer - to unveil a statue of Gordon Banks.

Banks played for the Potters between 1966 and 1972, and is widely regarded as one of England's greatest ever goalkeepers.

He won 73 caps for his country and is remembered by football fans everywhere for his fantastic diving save from a Pele header in the 1970 World Cup.

Pele has not visited the Potteries since 1969 - when his former club Santos beat Stoke 3-2 in a friendly.

But he will be back on July 12 for the unveiling of the £350,000 statue outside the Britannia Stadium, which is being made by local artist Andrew Edwards.

Banks said: "I can't believe that it's actually happening to me."

Seven League players are Ghana do their best

BENIN: Romuald Boco

NIGERIA: Danny Shittu

NIGERIA: Seyi Olofinjana

Seven players are flying the Football League flag at this year's Africa Cup of Nations - but keep your eye out for Romuald Boco.

The Accrington Stanley midfielder is the only League 2 player heading to the tournament, which kicks off in Ghana this weekend.

Boco, 22, is the captain of Benin - a country on the western side of Africa - and he is desperate to make his mark on the competition. Boco was actually born in France but is representing Benin, where his father was born.

Boco said: "Playing against some of Africa's finest sides offers Benin a fantastic opportunity to show the world what we're capable of - we're travelling with a lot of confidence.

"I love playing for Accrington Stanley. I've had a great time since I arrived in 2005. But when I play for Benin it's like playing football with my family."

Four Championship players and two League 1 men have also headed out to Ghana 2008.

Watford's Danny Shittu and Wolves' midfielder Seyi Olofinjana will represent Nigeria. Stoke's Mamady Sidibe plays for Mali, and Southampton captain Youssef Safri is with Morocco.

The Angola side boasts Leeds' Rui Marques, and Nottingham Forest front man Junior Agogo is with the hosts Ghana.

Agogo's talented side are favourites to lift the cup. The striker said: "I think we've got a better chance than anyone because we are hosting the tournament.

"We just want to go out there and get our first win as quickly as possible and we will see what happens from there."

Ghana kick off the competition with a match against Guinea.

The tournament will be broadcast live from 4.45pm on Sunday on BBCi, via the red button on your remote control.

MALI: Mamady Sidibe

MOROCCO: Youssef Safri

ANGOLA: Rui Marques

GHANA: Junior Agogo

Baggies fans barge in on boat to Hawthorns

By DEAN JONES

West Brom supporters have been gently floating down to matches - thanks to narrowboat enthusiast Richard Healey.

Richard has launched the Baggies Barge, which holds 38 people, and has made a couple of trips to The Hawthorns so far.

Fans are given a complimentary match-day programme and can purchase beer on the way to the ground on the 'voyage' which costs about £6. The first trip took place when West Brom faced Norwich.

The narrowboat was then out of the water for a couple of months because of silt problems in the waterways - but when it was sailing again it carried Baggies' followers to the game against Charlton.

The narrowboat travels from Gas Street in Birmingham to the Navigation pub - which is a few hundred yards from the ground.

Richard, who is also a

WATERBOY: Richard loves taking Baggies' fans to The Hawthorns on his barge

Baggies' fan, said: "It takes just over an hour to get to the ground from Birmingham. I have had enough enquiries to fill another boat.

"This project is brilliant for me because it means two of my major hobbies coming together.

"I own the narrowboat - and a friend told me how he thought it would probably take him longer to get to the ground by car than by boat!

"That's when I came up with the idea of a waterbus and I approached British Waterways and Albion, who have been very supportive.

"Everyone who comes on board seems to enjoy it and we aim to make it a regular thing."

Albion fan Brendan Crean, 41, has gone by boat to The Hawthorns. He said: "I would certainly do it again."

WBA advertise the barge on their website and supply the complimentary programmes.

Dons help for Hollie

MK Dons are hosting a special charity night for a local toddler with a rare illness.

Two-year-old Hollie Carter is suffering from Niemann Pick C disease.

The illness leads to progressive intellectual decline, loss of motor skills, seizures and dementia.

Hollie's family want the Hope for Hollie Charity Ball to raise money for the Niemann Pick C Disease Group.

Dons players have been asked to attend the evening and support the cause.

A collection was held at the League 2 side's clash with Barnet and raised £1,202.

The Charity Ball will take place on April 5 at stadium:MK and tickets are priced at £65 per person.

For more information please visit website www.hopeforhollie.co.uk.

Clarets going Dutch

A group of Burnley fans are planning to cycle to their final Championship game of the season at Crystal Palace - via Amsterdam!

They will be joined by former player Andy Farrell for a trip that will take them to three countries on the continent.

The fifth year of the Burnley FC Charity Bike Ride starts with a lap of Turf Moor before the team's final home game of season on April 26.

Then they pedal up to 90 miles a day on their trip through Holland, Belgium and France before arriving at Selhurst Park before the final match.

Fans who want to be involved must raise a minimum of £1,000 in sponsorship and pay a £150 registration fee.

The proceeds will be shared between Leukaemia Research and Burnley's Youth Development scheme.
